

Industrial Pressure Equipment Inspection Requirements

Pressure equipment must undergo periodic inspection according to the organization's maintenance schedule.

Any visible leakage must be investigated before the equipment is returned to continuous operation.

Abnormal vibration must be evaluated by qualified maintenance personnel.

Safety guards must remain installed during normal operation.

Inspection findings must be documented and reviewed before equipment approval.

Corrective actions must be completed or formally accepted by the responsible authority before final approval.